

IN THE ABSTRACT

Please amend the Abstract as follows:

---

8. A display driver device with double calibration allows the manufacturer of the display driver device to correct the manufacturing process as related to the spread of parameters by storing basic settings, ~~while the~~ The manufacturer of display modules can store correction factors to tailor the characteristics of a display module containing a particular display driver device and a particular display device.

Fig.1

---